

Animals of the Indian Canyons

Roadrunner: púwish in Cahuilla

Roadrunners eat what they can catch including insects and rattlesnakes. They are known for their speed and an X-shaped footprint. They can lower their body temperature over days, which leaves some to wonder if they hibernate. Many Agua Caliente people hold the roadrunner in high regard and believe it is good to have one close by.

indian-canyons.com

púwish

